E-learning Multi-agency Training Courses

Bolton
Safeguarding
Children

Introduction

This brochure has been produced to support organisations with access to online training where access to traditional face-to-face training is not available or convenient.

The training does not replace face-to-face training but is supportive of it and can be used to continue professional development and refresh previous training.

Part 1

Provides details of seminars and training very Microsoft Teams / Zoom or similar. The training is provided as a response to COVID 19 and an effort to ensure access to training. This section will be updated as the training develops and the circumstances change. The training is booked via Eventbrite from which you will be provided with access details.

Part 2

You can access a wide range of free or low-cost e-learning designed to support your work to safeguard children and young people. The majority of the courses are free, and many are accredited by recognised bodies.

N.B. All the training is sourced from external providers and the BSCP is not responsible for the content or able to assist with access or technical difficulties.

On completion of a course, practitioners should notify their agency training representative to ensure that e-learning is captured on their training record.

The BSCP also provide a catalogue of face-to-face training which is available at www.boltonsafeguardingchildren.org.uk

If you are aware of further resources that can be added to this brochure please contact the Multi-Agency Training Co-ordinator on 01204 337861 / 332030 or Email multiagencytraining@bolton.gov.uk

Children and Young People's Service

If abuse is happening in your home, you may feel unsafe, scared or anxious. If you can't go to school and you're being told you can't leave the house, you may be worried you have no one to talk to. It is really important you know how to keep yourself safe from domestic abuse and we are here to help you through telephone, text, email and video.

How can we help you?

If you are struggling with the effects of domestic abuse, our specialist Children and Young People's workers can help you with:

- 1 to 1 support and advice
- Managing your emotions
- Personal safety plans and risk assessments to keep you safe in your home
- A safe arena to explore healthy and unhealthy relationships

What should I do if I feel unsafe in my home?

Trusted adults: If adults are hurting each other, pick a trusted adult you can talk to. This could be a neighbour, an auntie or uncle, a teacher or a friend's parent. Remember to pick an adult who you can ring or contact easily and keep their number safe.

Safe place: Find a place to keep yourself safe away from where arguments or conflict is happening. If you have younger siblings try to take them with you. Never get involved if adults are hurting each other, even if you want to - you must keep yourself safe. If you can, leave your house and go and ask a neighbour for help. It's OK to do this even whilst we are in lockdown.

Emergency: If it is an emergency, you can ring 999 - this is a free call from any phone and you do not need to know the phone's passcode. If it is not safe to speak, press 55 when prompted.

Advice for professionals

If you are a professional currently working with a child or young person suffering the effects of domestic abuse, we are still taking referrals into the service and are available for general advice. We are also doing remote sessions for children and young people at home and, where possible, in schools so they have a safe zone to talk.

To make a referral in to the service, please email us via CYP@fortalice.co.uk and one of our specialist workers will contact you.
